

As seen in the September/October
2017 issue of MidTown Magazine.

Molly Waffles

Woofinwaggle
8471 Garvey Drive, #115, Raleigh

While many dogs at work only interact with people during the day, Molly Waffles is in a workplace that caters to dogs. This five-year-old Goldendoodle belongs to Carol Frasso, the owner of Woofinwaggle in Raleigh. Woofinwaggle is a canine-centric business that offers fitness class for dogs and their owners, as well as dog bathing services, dog painting services, dog massage, and boutiques with the latest dog products.

While Molly Waffles has a few furry friends she plays with inside Woofinwaggle, she is also a working class dog.

“She has full career – she is our robe model, our bandana model, she poses for pictures for our customer bags made by an artist, and she poses for collar pictures. She works for her food; I make her earn her living,” Frasso laughs.

Fitness classes are the centerpiece of the business, and Molly Waffles gets her workout in on the special equipment before other clients arrive.

“I owe it to my customers to be focused on them and their dogs as opposed to being focused on mine,” Frasso says.

Frasso says she and Molly are part of a very unique business with its concept of being a fitness and fun spot for dogs and their people.

“I view this as a place where we are introducing healthy things for you and your dog to do together,” Frasso says. “If you don’t know something, come here. We have lots of solutions, lots of contacts, and lots of activities.”